Industrial Board Re-organization Program Complete

Plan Submitted to Legislature Provides for Single-Headed Instead of 5-Headed Commission at Present

From a Staff Correspondent
ALBANY, Jan. 19.—Plans for the reorganization of the State Industrial Commission were submitted today by the Knight-Brady Legislative Labor Committee to the Senate and Assembly committees on Labor and Industry. In brief, the reorganization proposals effect as follows:

1—The establishing of a single-headed industrial commission in place of the present five-headed commission.
2—The creation of an industrial board of three members with quasi-judicial powers.
3—The reduction of the number of employees and curtailing the cost of maintenance and operation.

The expense of running the present department has virtually doubled in the last five years. The appropriation sought, this year is $2,963,565. The chief accomplishments to be made under the reorganization plans, aside from reducing expenditures, will be the increasing of efficient administration of the labor and workmen's compensation laws by separating these functions. They are now vested in the five-headed industrial commissioners.

The legal bureau of the department is to be discontinued and its work turned over to the Attorney General. The Industrial Commissioner will take over the present administrative organization, with power to create and consolidate the several bureaus and to abolish and consolidate such offices as in his judgment may make for efficiency in the administration of the department.

The Industrial Board will supervise all hearings in workmen's compensation cases, make rules for conducting the hearings, and will hear and determine all requests for review of decisions. This board also will pass on the industrial code and on variations requested from the strict letter of the labor law and the industrial code and appeals from labor orders, and make such investigations into labor conditions as may be required by law. In fact, this board takes charge of all the duties of the present commission, except the administration and enforcement of the law, which is vested in the sole commissioner.
